Investments in PMA discretionary managed accounts carry risks, including but not limited to market, liquidity, credit, interest rate, derivative, counterparty, foreign exchange and political risks. There can be no assurance that investment objectives will be achieved and past performance is not a guide to future performance. Investments in PMA discretionary managed accounts are designed to produce returns over the medium to long term and are not suitable for short-term speculation. The value of investments, and the income accruing, may fall or rise and investors may not get back their original principal amount invested. Terms and conditions of the PMA discretionary managed accounts shall apply.

Any opinion or view herein is made on a general basis and is subject to change without notice. The information provided in this website may contain optimistic statements regarding future events or future financial performance of countries, markets or companies. You must make your own financial assessment of the relevance, accuracy and adequacy of the information provided in this website. You may wish to obtain advice from a qualified financial adviser, pursuant to a separate engagement, before opening a discretionary managed account. In the event that you choose not to obtain advice from a qualified financial adviser, you should assess and consider whether such an account is suitable for you before proceeding to invest and we do not offer any advice in this regard unless mandated to do so by way of a separate engagement.
